STAR CHARITIES

Not only are these hot Hollywood stars making waves on the big screen, but they are also taking the time to lend a helping hand to their favorite causes and charities. Here's a look at how some of these celebs are helping to make a difference in the world.

HILARY SWANK

Actress Hilary Swank is supporting "Home 4 the Holidays" to urge people to save animals by adopting them as pets. "I'm so proud to be working with Iams Home 4 the Holidays to help raise awareness about the importance of pet adoption," said Hilary Swank, pet parent and 2009 Iams Home 4 the Holidays Ambassador. "Last year, the program's adoption goal was to get one million pets adopted in just three months, but this year the goal is even bigger: we're on a mission to find loving homes for 1.5 million orphaned pets between Oct. 1 and Jan. 4."

HAYDEN PANETTIERE

Hayden Panettiere has long been an advocate for saving dolphins and whales. Recently, the star took part in a campaign to end commercial whaling in international waters by offering up a "swim date" with her and some dolphins, in order to raise money for the cause. Panettiere is so passionate about saving dolphins and whales from slaughter that in 2007 a warrant was issued for her arrest in Japan after she joined in protests against the slaughter of marine mammals in the historic whaling town of Taiji.

MATT DAMON

Matt Damon, who hosted the popular OnexOne charity event in Toronto during the Film Fest, recently merged his H2O Africa charity, aimed at creating widespread public awareness of the water crisis in Africa and gathering support for clean water, with WaterPartners to create a new organization called Water.org—a non-profit focused on bringing access to safe water and sanitation to the developing world. “Every 15 seconds, a child in the developing world dies from water-related disease,” Damon has said.

Each year, the Canadian government allows sealers to beat and skin hundreds of thousands of seals. PETA and countless Canadian citizens and a long list of celebrities, including PAMELA ANDERSON and Tricia Helfer, as well as New Moon's Christian Serratos, are calling for a permanent end to this cruel and needless massacre. The European Union's ban on seal products and the U.S. Senate's resolution to end the seal slaughter are major steps in the right direction, but there is still much more to do in order to stop the slaughter forever. Go to www.peta.org.

BEN STILLER

Ben Stiller has recently joined the Rewrite the Future cause, which helps provide an education for eight million children in underdeveloped countries. The charity provides necessary supplies, books and uniforms. Stiller traveled to northeastern Uganda to see the poor living conditions first-hand. “The goal of Rewrite the Future was really to go to the children in the most affected areas, the hardest to reach, and try to help them gain access to education.”

ADRIAN GRENIER

Adrian Grenier is not only an eco-activist but recently lent his support to Kiva. This organization lets you connect with and loan money to unique small businesses in the developing world. By choosing a business on Kiva.org, you can “sponsor a business” and help the world's working poor make great strides towards economic independence.

KRISTEN BELL

In order to lend support to the children of Uganda, Kristen Bell took part in raising awareness with retailer Guess to launch organic men's T-shirts and women's tank tops, whose entire proceeds will go to benefit Invisible Children. The sales of the shirts will support sustainable socio-economic development in Uganda.

JANUARY JONES

Mad Men actress January Jones was in Washington recently on behalf of Oceana's campaign to save the sharks. She was there to lobby Congress members to tighten up U.S. laws that would help regenerate the shark population, of which 100 million are killed every year.

IT'S ALL ELEMENTARY

Robert Downey Jr. and Rachel McAdams reveal what it was like making Sherlock Holmes.

Robert Downey Jr. brings the legendary detective to life as he has never been portrayed before. Jude Law stars as Holmes' trusted colleague Dr. Watson, a war veteran who is a formidable ally for Sherlock Holmes. Rachel McAdams stars as Irene Adler, the only woman ever to have bested Holmes, and who has maintained a tempestuous relationship with the detective. Mark Strong stars as their mysterious new adversary, Lord Blackwood.

Can you talk about your take on this character as opposed to what some Sherlock Holmes purists might expect?

DOWNEY JR.: My take is what the Puritans would expect—if the Puritans know what they're talking about, that is. Several of the most surprising things, right off the bat, are that oft-associated props never appeared in the novels or the short stories. He never wore a deerstalker cap, except maybe once for a minute, but even then it was described differently. And even the long pipe is something that [William] Gillette used to not obscure his face onstage. We just went back as much as we could, without wanting to be reverent beyond repair, to how [Arthur Conan] Doyle explained the characters.

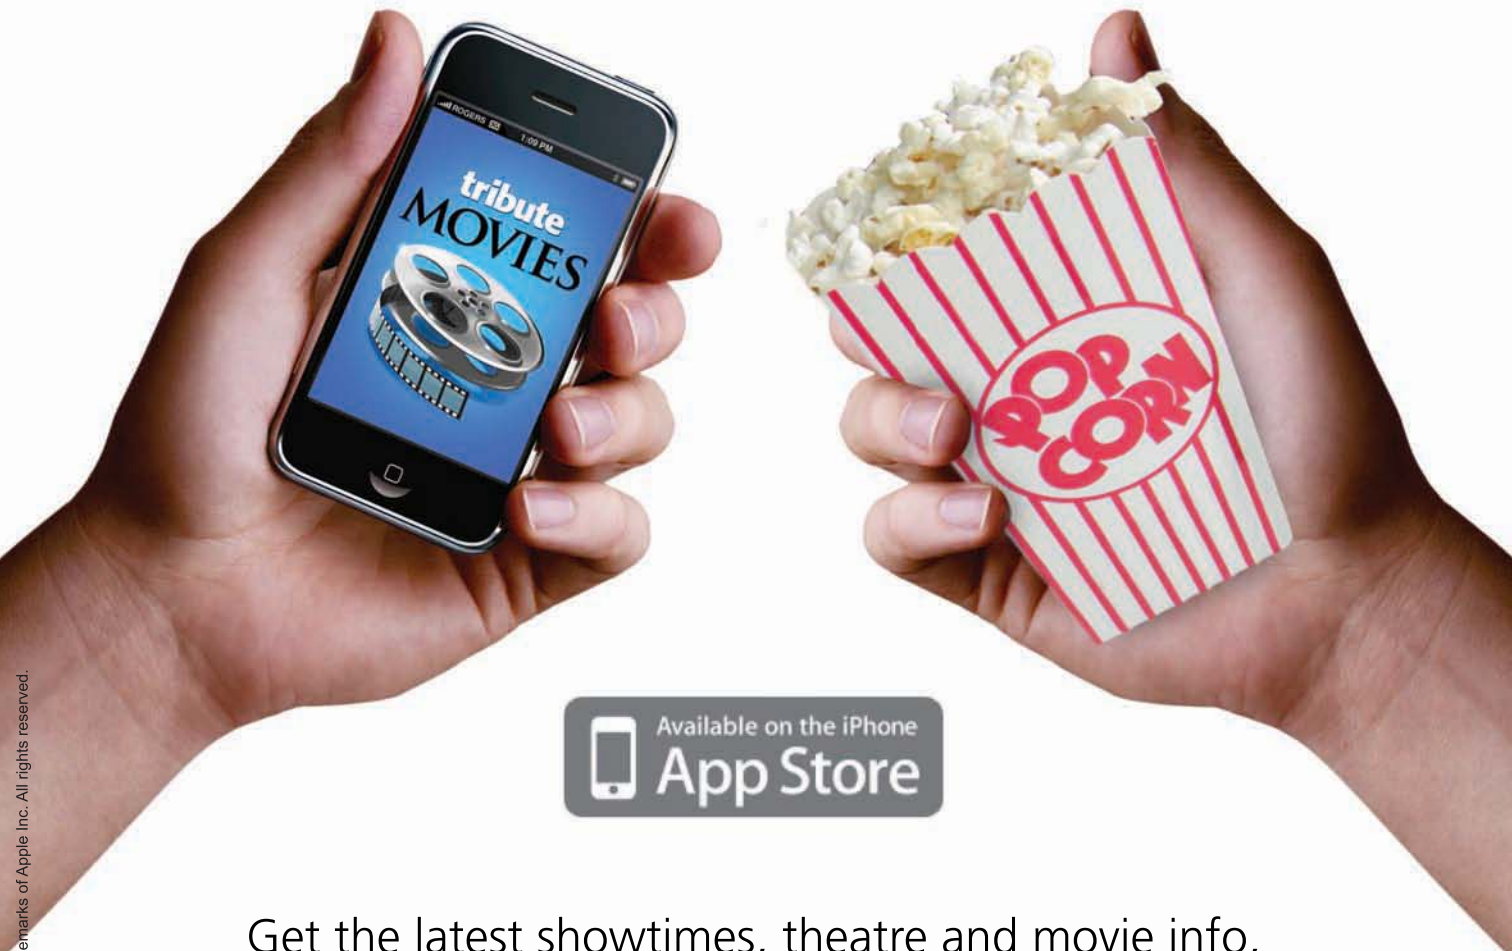

Robert, you have a great way of making your characters feel very natural. Is that what you feel you brought to this character and this period?

DOWNEY JR.: Well, it's never easy to be relaxed. But we work real hard at making it seem that way, and we would write out dialogue to make it seem more natural and have a flow to it. I really think that Doyle was an amazing, amazing writer and storyteller and I didn't really quite know how great he was until we would keep reaching out to find quotes and things that he said or descriptions he'd made.

It's Victorian England and they're gentlemen. So it's not some of that wavy gravy, free-flowing stuff. It's more boundary-laden, which I think was a great challenge.

Rachel, can you talk about Irene Adler and what it was like wearing your costumes?

McADAMS: She's a really fun character. She's quite different from a lot of women at that time. She's really her own boss, a real free spirit, and she's a woman of the night and of the underworld. So she's very acrobatic and she's traveled all over the world. There's a lot to play with there. And then, yeah, the costumes. I'm such a girlie girl. I was like a paper doll and I was just in heaven, being dressed from the head down.

The costumes are incredible. I mean, real-life corsets with the bones and totally cinched in, and I would try to push my belly out in the morning when they were coming to strap me in. It really was like out of Gone With The Wind and I'm holding onto the trailer door and trying to eke out just a little bit of space so that I could speak properly. They managed to squeeze me in every day. They'd try to make me laugh, and on the laugh they'd yank! But it was so much fun to be that authentic and to be really dropped right into the period. It was great.

If we're all here in 2019, talking about films, would you still like to be playing characters like this, Robert?

DOWNEY JR.: Well, I think about rock stars and they always say that they're going to retire by this or that age. Then I think about other guys, who shall remain nameless, one of whom has just starred in a movie with Rachel, who had double franchises going and was like, "God, I'm too old to do it." I think the thing is, if the material is still good and if you still love working with the people that you get to work with, then why not?

I wouldn't want to launch anything else, but I think that Sherlock Holmes in particular has just been such a life-changing experience, the act of researching it and making it and producer Joel [Silver] and I getting to do something big together and Lionel [Wigram] and Susan [Downey] and Rachel—and Jude [Law] is so the right arm of this movie. He wanted to go do something undeniably legitimate, and so he's doing Hamlet right now. But we, of course, say, Hamlet? Anyone can do that. Who gets cast as Watson? He was a huge part of this movie.

So to really answer the question, I'm down for the cause. By then we'll probably have another kid, maybe a Shetland pony, a non-alcoholic vineyard. I might need to really keep cranking them out!

Can you talk a little bit about the love story in this film? Between you and Rachel's character, or perhaps Sherlock and Watson?

DOWNEY JR.: It's called circumstantial homosexuality! I've heard this term is like a staple now, where they say, "We need a Butch and Sundance scene there" or "we need a Heat scene there." But we kept talking about Butch and Sundance. It means when people are so close that they almost can't stand each other but they can't stand on their own two feet without each other. That's what we really felt.

Doyle was giving us really the first look at what was essentially a two-hander, and Doyle is essentially Watson because he's telling the stories and saying that Watson's telling them. So the process with Jude really was: We met. Joel was like, "Go sell him." So he walks down the hall and my assistant, who never cares about anything, is standing in the hall and she's like, "Oh my God, there he is!" He walks down the hall and he's dressed in that kind of fabulous, super-expensive, underdressed way. I said, "Dude" and literally before he said he was going to do the movie, before he said that he was available, before he said that he either did or didn't want to be courted, we just started talking like two serious actors about what would need to happen to make this work as a piece of straight drama.

I think we just became really close really quick because we just rolled up our sleeves and started working from jump.

What was it like working with Guy Ritchie and his directing style?

DOWNEY JR.: With Rachel McAdams, [on the] first day of shooting, she prepares for six and a half hours, comes to set, there are two long-lens cameras, we did two takes, and I said, "Great. So now we're going to cover it because it's her first shot in the movie." Guy said, "That's all right, old cock. I think we've got it." I was like, "We don't got it," and Rachel's like, "Why did I [even bother getting ready]?"

You look in the movie and it's the scene where I'm looking across the punchbowl (pub) and you see that she winks at me, and he had it. Ritchie knew he had it, and he had it, but sometimes we want to do more, particularly when you get all gussied up for a half-day. You want to feel like you're working there.

CREATION

Paul Bettany and Jennifer Connelly star in the bio-pic about Charles Darwin.

Actor Paul Bettany, who plays Charles Darwin in the bio-pic Creation, once admitted the idea of working alongside his wife, Jennifer Connelly, alarmed him. “The night before we started filming, we looked at each other and said, ‘What are we going to do if the camera rolls and we just start giggling?’” Bettany told The Independent. “We are not just husband and wife. We are also parents of children, and you really find out about each other when you do the job of parenting.” But the pair quickly proved their chemistry is a scientific fact, onscreen and off. “It was the easiest it has ever been, ever, making a film.”

Connelly agrees. “I loved it,” she told MoviesOnline.ca. “Emma and Charles Darwin were married for many, many years... They grew up together. They knew each other all their lives, so it really suited the material.”

The onscreen couple Connelly and Bettany play in Creation are not without their troubles. In the film—a provocative true story of Darwin’s evolution theory, which had the power to change the world—Darwin and his wife Emma’s passion for religion, as well as the ways the couple deal with the death of their daughter, are fraught with true-to-life emotion and the heartbreak of reality.

“This is a real marriage, played by real married people willing to go to places a lot of actors are afraid of,” Creation director John Amiel told Tribute’s Bonnie Laufer. “What Paul and Jennifer brought to the screen was not just experience and extraordinary work ethic... they also brought a willingness to be raw and honest and open. So I never had to worry about creating a marriage; it was there.”

Creation is sure to surprise viewers unfamiliar with the side of Darwin’s life that goes beyond research experiments and complicated theories about the origins of life. “You know, like most viewers, when I first read a book about Charles Darwin, I thought, ‘No thank you, I would rather have my teeth cleaned,’” says Amiel. But then he read Randall Keynes’ Darwin biography, Annie’s Box upon which Creation is based. “Suddenly these people leap off the page at you. They’re vibrant, funny, enormously emotional, compassionate people.”

In the end, says Amiel, it was the relationship between Darwin and his wife that interested him most. “I became fascinated by the struggle between faith and reason embodied in a loving marriage.”

And he’s certain he chose the right couple to portray such an important relationship—although it did involve a leap of faith. “I’ve never cast a married couple before, and had I cast the wrong ones... it could have been disastrous. In this event, it was probably one of the best decisions I ever made.”

Taylor and Taylor

Their on and off
screen romance!

DON'T MISS: Avatar, Youth in Revolt and The Lovely Bones

A TAYLOR-MADE romance!

Taylor Lautner and Taylor Swift were struck by Cupid's arrow while shooting their upcoming film, Valentine's Day.

Country singing sensation Taylor Swift and Twilight hottie Taylor Lautner not only have their name in common, but also share a budding romance.

It seems the genre of their next film, Valentine's Day, has sparked more than a few flames between these two stars. While working on the film this summer, Swift and Lautner became fast friends, which eventually turned into a hot crush!

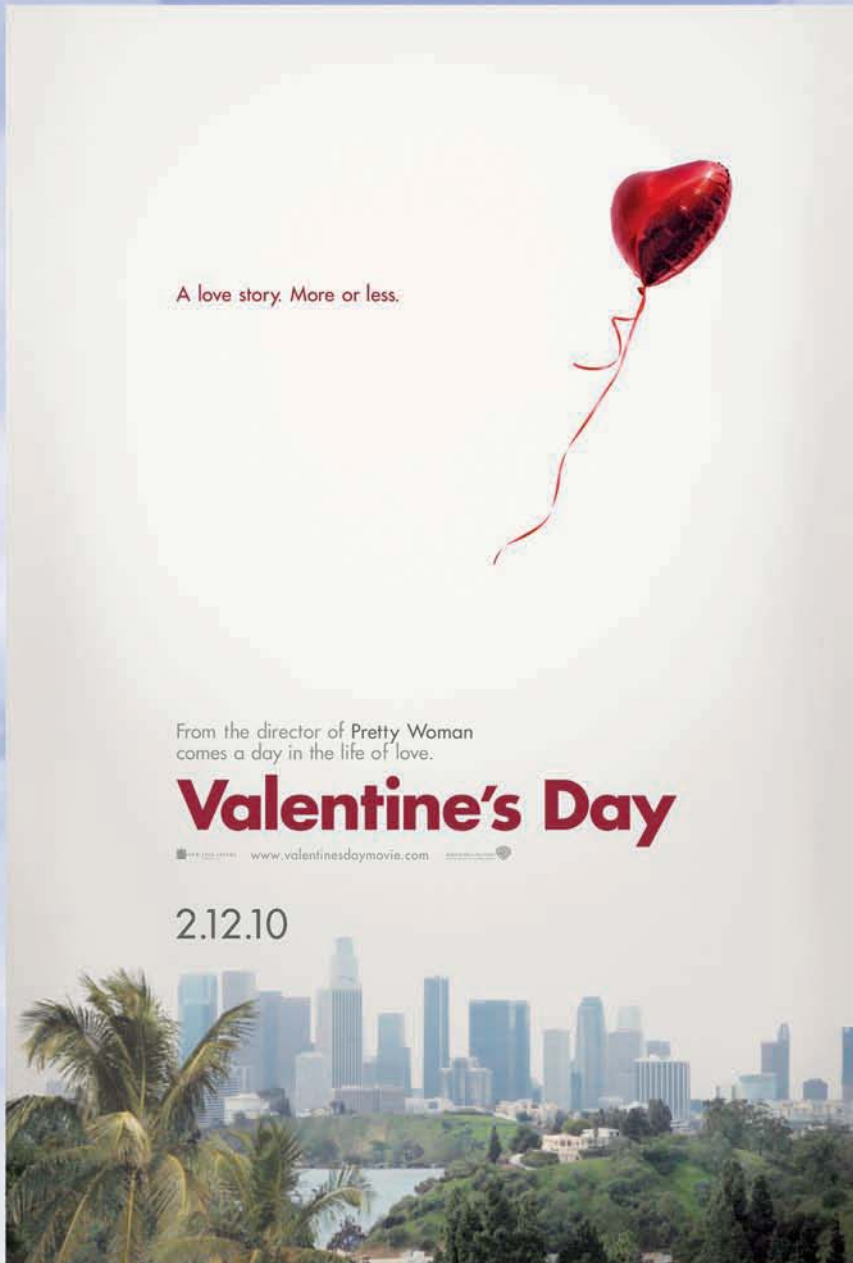

Swift, 19, and Lautner, 17, have not made their budding romance official, but they have been spotted around having cozy dinner dates and kissing at a sporting event.

Whether they make it official or not, one thing's for sure: "T-Squared" (their new nickname!) play a high school couple in Valentine's Day—a love story revolving around relationships in Los Angeles, all of which are put through the paces during the course of the official "love" day: February 14th.

Even though Valentine's day is supposed to be a celebration of love, things don't always go as planned, and you can expect a lot of romantic mayhem with the film's other stars, including Emma Roberts, Anne Hathaway, Jessica Alba, Ashton Kutcher, Jessica Biel, Joe Jonas and more!

Tell us what your best, worst or funniest Valentine's Day moments or memories are at www.tribute.ca and you could WIN fabulous prizes!

Hot Young HOLLYWOOD STARS

Up-and-coming Hollywood stars were shining brightly on the big screen in 2009, but we have a feeling that in 2010 we'll see even more great performances by these hot young actors and actresses. Here's who to watch for in the year ahead.

—Alicia McAuley

Actress CAREY MULLIGAN is slowly making a big name for herself. After honing her skills in a few big and small films, the lovely British actress is set to heat things up with Shia LaBeouf in 2010 with Wall Street 2: Money Never Sleeps.

Hollywood It-Girl BLAKE LIVELY has everyone talking—and for good reason! With a role in the hit show Gossip Girl, a high-profile romance with co-star Penn Badgley and a role in Ben Affleck's 2010 crime drama The Town, there's never a dull moment for this blonde bombshell.

She may only be 13, but ABIGAIL BRESLIN has already got a string of big-screen hits under her belt. In 2010, you'll be hearing Breslin on the big screen as the voice of Jeana in the animated sci-fi film, Quantum Quest: A Cassini Space Odyssey.

He already makes the ladies swoon as Jacob Black in the Twilight Saga movies, but TAYLOR LAUTNER will melt more than a few hearts as prom king to Taylor Swift's queen in the 2010 rom-com Valentine's Day this February.

EMMA WATSON has grown up right before our eyes! The hot young actress returns in 2010 with the seventh installment of the Harry Potter series, Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows: Part I.

Gossip Girl hottie PENN BADGLEY gave audiences a thrill with The Stepfather, but in 2010 the handsome star will have everyone laughing with his role in Easy A.

With her killer style, LEIGHTON MEESTER shines in Gossip Girl. But while GG is all about the drama, Meester will lighten things up alongside Tina Fey and Steve Carell in the upcoming comedy Date Night.

DAKOTA FANNING has grown from a precocious child star to a lovely young Hollywood starlet. In 2010, she'll rock audiences in The Runaways and reprise her role as Jane in The Twilight Saga: Eclipse.

Disney cutie SELENA GOMEZ found more than a starring role while filming the upcoming Ramona and Beezus in Vancouver—she also once dated Taylor Lautner, who was filming New Moon at the time.

Canadian darling ELLEN PAGE shocked fans when she locked lips with Whip It co-star Drew Barrymore in Marie Claire magazine, but what's really got people buzzing is her role in the top-secret 2010 Christopher Nolan flick, The Inception.

Though she's enjoyed the best of both worlds with her hit show Hannah Montana, MILEY CYRUS will put her famous Hannah character aside in 2010 with her role in the Nicholas Sparks-penned flick, The Last Song. She'll also make a cameo in Sex and the City 2!

THE IMAGINARIUM OF DOCTOR PARNASSUS

December 25 Fantasy

Heath Ledger, Christopher Plummer, Verne Troyer, Lily Cole, Johnny Depp, Colin Farrell, Jude Law

The Imaginarium of Doctor Parnassus is a fantastical morality tale set in the present day. It tells the story of Dr. Parnassus and his extraordinary Imaginarium, a travelling show where members of the audience get an irresistible opportunity to choose between light and joy or darkness and gloom.

Blessed with the extraordinary gift of guiding the imaginations of others, Doctor Parnassus is cursed with a dark secret. An inveterate gambler, thousands of years ago he made a bet with the devil, Mr. Nick, in which he won immortality. Centuries later, on meeting his one true love, Dr. Parnassus made another deal with the devil, trading his immortality for youth, on condition that when his daughter reached her 16th birthday, she would become the property of Mr. Nick.

Mr. Nick arrives to collect but, always keen to make a bet, he renegotiates the wager. Now the winner of Valentina will be determined by whoever seduces the first five souls. Enlisting a series of wild, comical and compelling characters in his journey, Dr. Parnassus promises his daughter's hand in marriage to the man that helps him win. In this captivating, explosive and wonderfully imaginative race against time, Dr. Parnassus must fight to save his daughter in a never-ending landscape of surreal obstacles—and undo the mistakes of his past once and for all.

SEX DEGREES

What do you get when you mix a wholesome Canadian cutie, a lady-loving British playboy and a reformed bad boy on a major movie comeback streak?

You guessed it—

RACHEL MCADAMS,
JUDE LAW and

also known as the stars of Guy Ritchie's Sherlock Holmes, who'll be heating up the big screen this Christmas with a new take on an old classic. But aside from their onscreen chemistry, this trio knows how to keep things sizzling offscreen, too. From long-term loves to flirty flings, we've got the scoop on how these three fit into the always-changing world of Hollywood romance.

1 McAdams and southern hottie JOSH LUCAS hit it off after a Cupid-like introduction by her Sherlock Holmes co-star, Jude Law. The pair cemented their couple status at President Obama's inaugural Purple Ball, where onlookers spotted them locking lips and flirting up a storm with each other all evening.

2 After RYAN GOSLING heated up the big screen with McAdams in The Notebook, it was hard for fans not to cheer on the real-life romance of the duo known as "McGosling." Alas, the cute Canadian couple called it quits, and Gosling moved on to his All Good Things co-star, Kirsten Dunst.

3 NATALIE PORTMAN seems to have a thing for tall, dark and handsome men, but that didn't stop her from getting cozy with co-star Law (who hasn't?) at the wrap party for My Blueberry Nights. The two have worked together on films before and are good friends, but when they left the party together at 2 a.m. rumors of romance started to swirl.

4 Though their relationship ended in the wake of his infamous nanny affair, Law and SIENNA MILLER were quite the attractive couple for over a year, and had even planned to get married. Since then, Miller has caused controversy with her relationship with Balthazar Getty, who was married during their fling.

5 Before WINONA RYDER found her way into the arms of Johnny Depp (and onto his arm, too—Depp's famous "Wino Forever" tattoo used to say "Winona"), she was linked to Sherlock Holmes' leading man, Downey Jr. Though Ryder has dated a string of musicians over the years, these days she's making sweet music with Kylie Minogue's ex, James Gooding. Share and share alike.

6 SARAH JESSICA PARKER may have found a happy home with husband Matthew Broderick, but before she was strapping on Manolos as Carrie Bradshaw, the Sex and the City actress spent seven years with Downey Jr., who has admitted that the couple ended their relationship when Downey Jr.'s party-boy ways became too much for Parker to handle.

7 KIRSTEN DUNST is definitely no stranger to the dating scene, but the starlet doesn't seem to have much luck in the long-term romance department. The 27-year-old actress has hooked up with an impressive list of Hollywood hotties including Spiderman co-star Tobey Maguire, Jake Gyllenhaal, Leonardo DiCaprio and Josh Hartnett.

8 JOSH HARTNETT has certainly earned his ladies' man rep. After a six-year romance with "O" co-star Julia Stiles, Harnett stepped out with a long list of Hollywood's leading ladies, including Katie Holmes, Scarlett Johansson, Sienna Miller and Penélope Cruz. Hartnett has most recently coupled up with Norwegian model Sophia Lie.

9 EDWARD NORTON may be tight-lipped about his dating history, but his list of former flames reads like a who's who of female A-listers: Salma Hayek, Drew Barrymore, Cameron Diaz and Jessica Biel. For the past three years, though, it's Canadian producer Shauna Robertson who's got a hold of the playboy's heart.

10 Though he may play down his sex-symbol status, LEONARDO DICAPRIO has a long list of exes that secure his place on Hollywood's playboy list. He's been linked to actresses like Kirsten Dunst and Jessica Biel, but DiCaprio's track record suggests that he's more of a model man, having romanced lovely ladies like Gisele Bündchen and Bar Refaeli.

11 MADONNA has finally found Jesus—Luz, that is! Her latest Latin lover/boy toy comes after a rumored tumultuous marriage to director Guy Ritchie. She was famously quoted as saying, "I think that everyone should get married at least once, so you can see what a silly, outdated institution it is." Yet the Material Girl has actually been married twice—to Ritchie and Sean Penn.

12 JESSICA BIEL has been making headlines lately over the status of her relationship with superstar Justin Timberlake, but before she found love with the former boy band-er, Biel played the field and spent some quality time with New York Yankees shortstop Derek Jeter.

13 There's no shortage of leading men in CAMERON DIAZ's little black book. The blond beauty may not be a fan of long-term love, but with a list of ex-flames that includes Matt Dillon, Jared Leto, Justin Timberlake, John Mayer and Maroon 5 front-man Adam Levine, it would be hard to choose just one!

14 Sherlock Holmes director GUY RITCHIE may have given up his "Material Guy" status after splitting from wife Madonna, but he is no slouch when it comes to the Hollywood dating game. Ritchie has been linked to Hugh Grant's former flame, Jemima Khan, and is rumored to be romancing Australian supermodel Elle MacPherson. Go Guy!

15 With those fierce blue eyes and rock-star charm, it's easy to see how JARED LETO finds his way into the hearts of Hollywood's loveliest ladies. But when ex-flame Cameron Diaz found a new love with pop star Justin Timberlake, Leto struck back by hooking up with Timberlake's former flame Britney Spears. Revenge or rebound? We'll let you decide.

NIGHT AT THE MUSEUM: BATTLE OF THE SMITHSONIAN

December 1 Comedy

Upon returning to his old haunt, the Museum of Natural History, former night guard Larry Daley (Ben Stiller) discovers that his favorite exhibits have been deemed “out of date.” When he receives a distress call from his old friend, a miniature cowboy named Jedediah (Owen Wilson), Larry is thrust back into action, battling some of history’s most heinous henchmen. Larry must stop the terrible trio, save his friends, and restore order to the museum—all before sunrise!

“First one was a little bit better, though.”

JULIE & JULIA

December 8 Comedy

Julie Powell (Amy Adams) is a frustrated office worker in need of a change. Inspired by French chef Julia Child (Meryl Streep), Powell decides to cook her way through Child’s first book, making a new recipe every day and blogging about her results. Based on the true stories of two women who both find themselves at loose ends, Julie & Julia proves that with the right combination of passion, fearlessness—and butter—anything is possible.

PUBLIC ENEMIES

December 8 Action

John Dillinger (Johnny Depp) is a charismatic bank robber whose lightning raids made him the number-one target of J. Edgar Hoover’s fledgling FBI and its top agent, Melvin Purvis (Christian Bale). While his charm and outrageous jailbreaks are endearing to his girlfriend Billie Frechette (Marion Cotillard) and frustrated Americans with no sympathy for banks during the Great Depression, Hoover is not impressed. He labels Dillinger America’s first “Public Enemy Number One” and vows to take down Dillinger and his gang of outlaws.

“Good movie. It keeps your attention.”

HARRY POTTER AND THE HALF-BLOOD PRINCE

December 8 Fantasy

With the return of Lord Voldemort, Death Eaters are wreaking havoc in both the Muggle and wizarding worlds, making Hogwarts a dangerous place for Harry Potter (Daniel Radcliffe) and his friends. Although the students are distracted by blossoming romances—Harry, Ron (Rupert Grint) and Hermione (Emma Watson) included—their lives at Hogwarts may never be the same after an unthinkable tragedy shakes up the school.

JUDE LAW - born December 29, 1972, London, England.

A true Capricorn, Law quickly rose to prominence through a combination of talent and determination. His intense presence and impeccable technique have garnered him rave reviews and a host of awards. Also true to his sign, he has a good pedigree: both of the London-born actor's parents are theater directors. His is a sign that takes fatherhood seriously, though his love life has been rocky of late. Last month, it was revealed he had fathered a child with model Samantha Burke. What's next? Look for Law to keep challenging himself in his career. He'll also be making a big push to get his personal life together, with a more stable long-term relationship set to start in 2010.

STAR STRUCK

What the stars have planned for you

 ARIES (March 21 - April 20)

The holiday frenzy kicks in early, and your gift picks are inspired. Make the most of it, as things quiet down by the 20th. After that, someone close could help you enjoy a nice peaceful feeling. The pace quickens again around New Year's, when a level head works best in money matters.

 TAURUS (April 21 - May 21)

Eat, drink and make merry! The icing on the fruitcake: some casting calls in both love and career are set for the 16th. New opportunities prove you're poised to come into your own—and soon. Avoid travel later in the month if you can. Any get-togethers you host could become the talk of the town.

 GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)

Expect the unexpected, but most surprises are happy ones. Romantic scenarios provide the most excitement all month. Go with the frantic holiday flow until the 20th, when the plug is pulled on your energy reserves. But after a little downtime, you'll be in fine form to live it up on New Year's Eve.

 CANCER (June 22 - July 22)

You're filled with good cheer heading into the holidays, and a creative burst. Midmonth you're reviewing career options. Don't push it, though, lest you push the wrong buttons. Keep the holiday spending in check, especially after the 20th, after which you and your special other are totally in tune.

 LEO (July 23 - August 23)

Money worries make the holiday season appear less than merry. But a partner is on your side, so launch a new project or two. But make all work-related decisions before the 20th, after which both your fuse and perspective are on the short side. By the time the holidays roll in, you're ready to celebrate in style.

 VIRGO (August 24 - September 23)

Always organized, your gift shopping is finished ahead of time, events planned to the tiniest detail. Which leaves time for fresh career opportunities that come gift-wrapped and shiny early in the month. Around New Year's you're surprisingly candid about your feelings, and a once-indifferent romantic lead responds in kind.

 LIBRA (September 24 - October 23)

You seem to be on everybody's A-list this holiday season. Show you're an equally spectacular guest as host, and mingle, mingle, mingle. Last-minute gift purchases on the 20th turn out to be appropriate, but don't break the bank. Your New Year's resolutions include a major career move.

 SCORPIO (October 24 - November 22)

You're full of big ideas for the holidays. Right on cue, a bonus or other source of extra cash helps underwrite them. The career script unfolds pretty much as written until the 20th. After that decisions and projects stall, just as your romantic side heats up. Love scenes unfold in soft focus on New Year's Eve.

 SAGITTARIUS (November 23 - December 21)

Let the good times roll! Venus in your sign until the 24th ups your natural charm and charisma. The 16th could be particularly happy for home entertaining, and a holiday romance has plenty of passion to fuel it through the holidays. Be careful what you wish for as the year wraps up: you just might get it!

 CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 20)

Until the 20th, you'll be whooping it up more than usual. All those extra office and other parties plus a heavy work schedule can take a toll, so schedule lots of downtime, too. Lay down the Law of Attraction from the 21st on. Venus in your sign means if you can visualize it, you pretty much can have it.

 AQUARIUS (January 21 - February 18)

A subdued holiday period suits you just fine. Focus on self-renewal until the 20th, take lots of personal time and head for the spa. Your social calendar fills up late in the month, just when you may have to pick up someone's slack at work. Let your talents shine as you head into the New Year.

 PISCES (February 19 - March 20)

Deck those halls! Under the light of the full moon on the 2nd, you'll be ready to decorate your home and welcome friends and family. Just don't max out the credit to pull it all off. After the 20th, you might have to put in some extra hours at work. But by New Year's you're free to field an intriguing proposal from someone special.
